

River Comes to Town in Ottumwa

The rising Des Moines River made canals out of the main downtown section of Ottumwa, Ia., shown in this airview. Flood waters drove 10,000 from their homes in the city, took at least eight lives, including five rescue workers whose boat overturned.

Mississippi Sweeps Over Rich Farms in Missouri, Illinois

Eight Persons Are Dead at Ottumwa, Iowa; Hundreds Driven From Homes

Fannibal, Mo., June 9 (AP)—The flood-swollen Mississippi River today was pouring its muddy waters over thousands of acres of farm lands and into small towns along its banks in Missouri and Illinois. Levee breaks sent eight to 10 feet of water coursing into the village of Alexandria, Mo., yesterday and inundated an estimated 20,000 acres of land between Keokuk, Iowa, and St. Louis.

Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes but no loss of life was reported. Six hundred and thirty residents of Alexandria evacuated their homes Saturday night in anticipation of the break.

The rise of the Mississippi was given impetus as flood water of the Des Moines River emptied into the Mississippi at Keokuk. The flooding Des Moines caused heavy damage at several Iowa points, principally Ottumwa, where at least eight persons were known to be dead and thousands driven from their homes.

At Quincy, Ill., the Mississippi reached a record high of 23.5 feet before the levee broke caused a slight drop. The city is situated on a bluff and is in no danger of being flooded.

There were six levee breaks on both sides of the river, thus relieving some of the pressure and danger in the area between Quincy and Clarksville, Mo.

More than a thousand farm families moved out of bottom lands between Warsaw, Ill., and Hannibal. The Coast Guard and a corps of engineers had all available equipment and men on rescue duty.

After rising to 23.35 feet at Hannibal, the river dropped slightly, but last night was rising again. The lower part of the downtown district was under water. Canton, Mo., was helped by a levee break at Alexandria and Mayor Mel Hamill reported the water near the crest there yesterday with six inches on Main street and some streets flooded. About 600 persons were homeless.

About twenty families were forced from their homes at Louisiana, Mo.

All rail traffic between St. Louis and Burlington, Iowa, has been halted and highways along the river closed in flood areas.

American Woman Is Killed Six Miles From Tokyo; Search Begun

Tokyo, June 9 (AP)—The body of an American woman was found early today beside a road six miles from the center of Tokyo and U. S. criminal investigation division agents began an immediate search for "the possible murderer or murderers."

The C.I.D. agents refused to discuss their investigation. Other sources said there were two bullet holes in the woman's head.

Allied headquarters said no firearms were found in the vicinity of the body.

Headquarters declined to identify the woman, except to say she was a War Department civilian employee, pending notification of next of kin.

Fairchild Foresees Fundamental Clash Coming in Nation

Diversity of Thought, He Tells Woodstock P.C.A., Keeps U. S. From an Armed Uprising

Woodstock, June 9—Henry Pratt Fairchild, eminent sociologist and retired professor, told an audience Saturday evening at the Woodstock Stock Playhouse "We are building towards a fundamental clash from which at the present time there seems almost no way of escape, and yet there is hope."

Professor Fairchild, who spoke under the auspices of the Ulster county chapter of Progressive Citizens of America, added, "We are not yet on the verge of an armed revolution in this country, because, fortunately, there is a great mass of people between two extremes who have not aligned themselves with one side or the other."

Dr. Harold Rugg, a state vice-chairman of P. C. A., introduced Professor Fairchild by saying, "There are really only two kinds of people in the world: the kind who have to be driven, led or forced, and those curious people who in some mysterious way have the power of lifting themselves by their own boot straps. Henry Pratt Fairchild is one of the latter."

Dr. Rugg was introduced by Mrs. Julia Leventhal.

Dr. Rugg commended the Woodstock Discussion Group for making possible Saturday evening's meeting.

Professor Fairchild, in discussing the growth of groups such as that he was addressing at Woodstock, said, "When Dr. Davidson laid the foundation of the Independent Citizens Committee it was the first time in the history of this country that the devotees of the arts came down out of their ivory towers and said, 'It is time for us to have an active part in what is going on in our country, and have a positive influence in it.'"

Man Is Drowned In Shallow Brook

Marlborough Farm Hand Fell, Struck Head, Trooper Says

Louis Rossi, 61, who had been employed on the Dragotta farm at Marlborough, was drowned in a shallow brook back of Western avenue in the village Saturday night. So far as is known he has no near relatives in this country and had come to Marlborough from New Jersey.

Corporal Austin of the State Police barracks at Highland said the man had been drinking during the evening and shortly before the drowning had gone to the place where Mike Zimmetli resided. While Mike went into the shack, Rossi apparently roamed about the area and stumbled over a five foot embankment to the creek, in falling to the creek he struck his head and was rendered unconscious.

The water in the creek was very shallow but before the plight of Rossi was discovered he had drowned. Dr. W. B. Harris was summoned and Corporal Austin and Trooper Samuels of the Highland barracks notified. Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill was notified and after an investigation gave a verdict of accidental death by drowning.

The body was taken to the Tuthill Funeral Home in Marlborough while attempts are being made to locate any relative.

G.O.P. Hits Recent Talk As Political

President Was Trying to 'Build Fences' Is Capital Feeling of His Speech

Reclamation Cited Dworshak Says Truman Responsible for Tieup in Program

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Republicans accused President Truman today of trying to "build political fences" in his Kansas City speech outlining a broad domestic welfare program and criticizing the G.O.P.-controlled Congress for cutting appropriations.

But Democrats took the view the Chief Executive simply was restating his position on issues confronting the nation.

Senator Dworshak (R-Idaho), told a reporter he thinks the country's reclamation program—mentioned specifically by the President—has become involved in politics "by those who are more interested in building political fences than they are in building reclamation projects."

"It is unfortunate that the President, who now wants reclamation projects built rapidly, should have seen fit last August to freeze reclamation development by an executive order tying up 60 per cent of the funds for construction," Dworshak declared.

Senator Baldwin (R-Conn.) said he thinks Mr. Truman's speech, delivered Saturday night before veterans of the 35th Division, "sounds like a campaign document."

While the Republicans took issue with many of the President's proposals, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) had high praise for what he described as "a fine, liberal statement showing that the President is trying to promote the general welfare of the whole people and not just the welfare of the privileged few."

Mr. Truman called, among other things, for an increase in minimum wages, broadening of social security, decent housing and equalization of educational opportunities.

He said "critical shortages" in electric power must be overcome, that laws designed to conserve natural resources are "in grave danger" of being made ineffective by congressional refusal of appropriations and that the farm program may be endangered for the same reason.

Depicting water control, reclamation and power projects as "investments," Mr. Truman said he hopes that "on careful reflection and consideration" Congress will provide money for them.

The House staved the $295,420,420 which Mr. Truman asked for the Interior Department to $161,413,513 and pared his $1,188,571,318 request for the Agriculture Department to $847,601,976.

Both bills still are pending in the Senate. There were reports Friday that the Appropriations Committee there has agreed tentatively to add between $60,000,000 and $66,000,000 to the Interior Department fund.

But Senator Wherry (R-Nebr.) said it's not merely a matter of providing the money.

Instead, it's whether you can get contractors to take the work and whether they can get the materials," Wherry told a reporter.

Cable Failure Cuts Part of Electric Service

A cable failure on Foxhall avenue near Broadway late Sunday afternoon interrupted electric service in the central Broadway sector of the city.

The service was cut off for the first time shortly after 4 p. m., according to an official of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. It restored itself and then broke off for slightly more than an hour pending temporary repairs.

All service in the Kingston Hospital, high school and city hall was interrupted and the police reported that the department radio was thrown out of service at 3:46 p. m. The radio was in service again shortly after 4 p. m. and went out again at 4:33 p. m. according to reports at headquarters. It was back in service at 5:37 p. m., the report said.

Residential service was interrupted in the Brewster street area, the official of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation said today.

Mack Is Elected

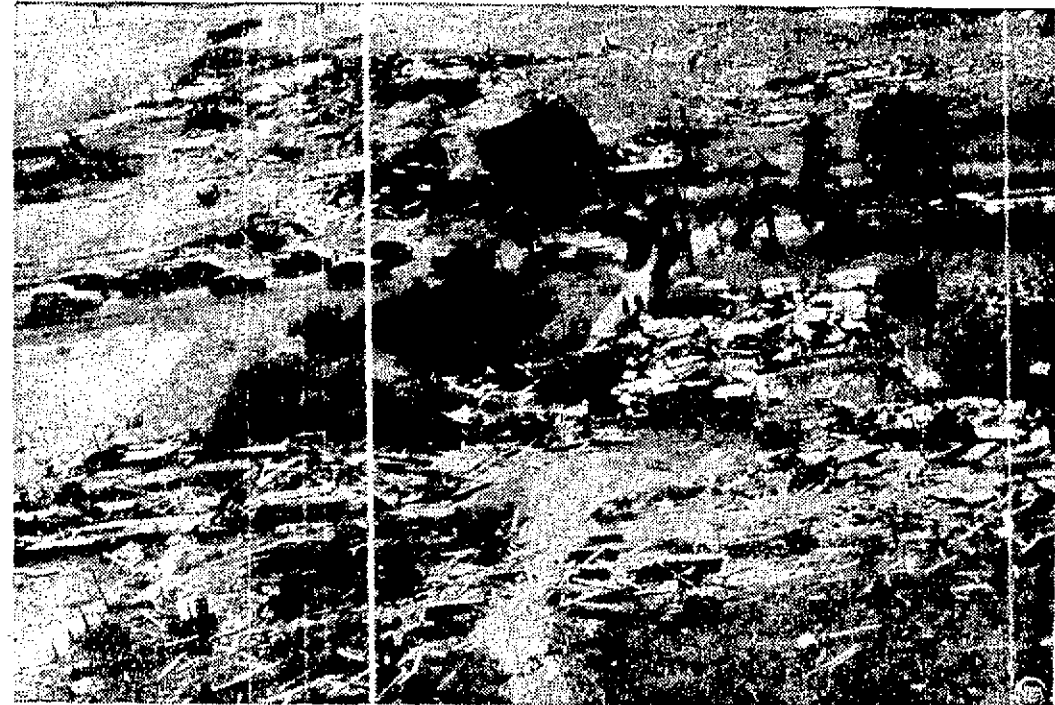

Olympia, Wash., June 9 (AP)—Russell V. Mack, Republican, today was the newest addition to the Congress of the United States and Charles Savage, Democrat, who had the backing of Henry Wallace, remained an ex-congressman after Saturday's special election gave the G.O.P. and the Hoquiam, Wash., publisher the victory by 1,500 votes. Mack said he viewed his election as a decision by the people of Washington's Third District to stand "solidly back of our nation's bi-partisan policy."

He succeeds the late Fred Norman, the Republican who defeated Savage by 7,000 votes in the 1946 election.

Union Withdraws Pickets at Pilgrim Construction Job

Hearing on Show Cause Order to Be Held Wednesday Before Justice Schirick

Pickets were withdrawn and construction work on the new Pilgrim Furniture Company plant on Greenkill avenue was resumed today following a stipulation between parties made in Supreme Court at 11 o'clock when an order to show cause why the picketing should not cease was heard before Justice Harry E. Schirick.

The picketing was called off by Local 1545, Carpenters and Joiners Union, when the South Clinton Realty Company, owners of the building, agreed that there would be no overtime work on the construction job pending a hearing on the show cause order at 2 o'clock Wednesday to which time the matter was adjourned at the request of George E. Yerry, Jr., Business Agent for the local, who sought time in which to secure counsel for the local.

Sam Doyle, agent for Local 251, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, under whose jurisdiction an agreement had been made last fall to supply labor for the project, stated that the men would be ordered back on the construction job immediately.

Saturday Justice Schirick signed a show cause order returnable today at 11 o'clock directing Local 1545 Carpenters and Joiners to show cause why pickets on the South Prospect street project should not be stayed from picketing the premises where the new factory building is being erected.

The order was not directed to picketing at the Teller street plant of Pilgrim Furniture Company where the workmen have gone out on strike over a wage dispute.

Copies of the show cause order were served on George E. Yerry, Jr., as business agent of Local 1545 and on Francis Robinson, president of the Local, Saturday afternoon.

Says Agreement Signed
John Tervo, business agent of Local 251, in an affidavit which accompanied the application stated that last September an agreement was signed between the South Prospect Realty Company and his Local to furnish labor for the construction of the factory and that since that time the Local had done so. The affidavit stated that there had been no disagreement between the Local and the South Prospect Realty Company and none existed at this time but that on June 6 when Local 1545 posted pickets at the scene work had ceased when the workmen who were engaged under the agreement to do the job refused to cross the picket line because of principles and customs of Unions.

Walkouts Staged in Pennsylvania and 14 Mines Are Closed

Uniontown, Pa., June 9 (AP)—Protests over a labor-curbing bill passed by Congress were blamed today for a spreading walkout of bituminous coal miners which already had idled nearly 10,000 diggers in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Some 6,600 miners quit work or voted to quit work over the week-end and today they were joined by an additional 3,600 miners in the rich coal producing fields of Fayette, Greene and Washington counties.

At Washington, the Hartley-Taft Labor Bill, which would restrict strikes in essential industries and provide new mediation machinery, was expected to reach President Truman for action in a few days.

Fourteen mines were shut down, most of them captive pits owned by large steel companies—U. S. Steel Corp., Weirton Steel, Jones and Laughlin and Republic Steel.

The walkouts came just three weeks before the miners begin a 10-day vacation called for officially under their government contract and a month before a general strike threat.

The government must return the mines to private operation July 1 but the vacation, beginning June 27, would delay any strike until July 7.

Meanwhile, the last of the contract negotiations with Mine Chief John L. Lewis and the operators broke down last week.

Some Return to Work
However, the 300 members of one A.F.L. United Mine Workers Local returned to work when their president, Andrew S. Raynor, warned against any violation of the Federal Anti-Strike injunction.

The budget request for the Office of Housing Expediter was $7,765,000, which contemplated liquidation next January 1. The committee cut this to $5,539,080, which it said would be the cost of liquidation as of June 30, 1947.

Created in 1945

The Housing Expediter's Office was created in 1945 to develop emergency measures to deal with the housing shortage.

"The committee said it is convinced that the program to expedite home building 'has not been successful.'"

"It is doubtful that the funds expended have expedited construction at all," it said, adding: "Reports are prevalent that building materials have become available in a volume that is beginning to saturate the market, and that price reductions in many lines are in the offing because supply is beginning to exceed demand."

The committee struck at the National Housing Agency through its parent organization, the Federal Public Housing Authority. It cut the F.P.H.A. budget for administrative expenses from $15,600,000 to $10,100,000 and ordered F.P.H.A. to reduce sharply the number of its higher-paid personnel.

The committee said its hearings "are replete with instances of poor administration," and "questionable policies and practices" in the F.P.H.A. Included, it added, are "instances of embezzlement of the funds of local housing projects," indications that "labor unions are exercising an undue influence in at least some of the personnel actions," and "indications" that travel and long-distance telephone expenses have been "very loosely controlled."

The committee suggested that the office of administrator, which coordinates the activities of the National Housing Agency, go out

Six Federal Agencies Are in Line for Money for Operations

Washington, June 9 (AP)—Forecasting early saturation of the building materials market and many price reductions "in the offing," the House Appropriations committee recommended today that the Office of Federal Housing Expediter be liquidated at the end of this month.

The committee took the action in the annual government Corporations Supply Bill in which it also (a) called for sharp curtailment of the National Housing Agency activities and (b) asked Congress to require the Tennessee Valley Authority to repay during the next 40 years $348,233,240 in appropriations for power-producing facilities.

The bill carries direct appropriations in addition to setting out how much of their revenues 21 other agencies may use for administrative expenses during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Total new appropriations recommended are $36,997,580, a reduction of $14,039,930, or 28 per cent, below budget estimates. Total administrative expense limitations are $41,619,700, a cut of $14,847,550, or 26 per cent, from what the 21 agencies had requested.

Of the total recommended cut in direct appropriations, $9,225,320, or almost 66 per cent, was directed at the housing agencies.

The budget request for the Office of Housing Expediter was $7,765,000, which contemplated liquidation next January 1. The committee cut this to $5,539,080, which it said would be the cost of liquidation as of June 30, 1947.

Bulgarians Say Petkov's Arrest Is Internal Matter Only

Sofia, June 9 (AP)—The Bulgarian government made it plain today that it considered last week's arrest of opposition leader Nikola Petkov purely an internal matter and no concern of any foreign power.

The government's position was set forth in a communique saying that, political representatives of the United States and Britain had told Communist Premier Georgi Dimitroff that Petkov's arrest might have "international importance."

"Delivering Petkov to the judicial authorities," the communique declared, "is purely a Bulgarian home question and Petkov, as are all other Bulgarian citizens, is subordinated to Bulgarian laws only."

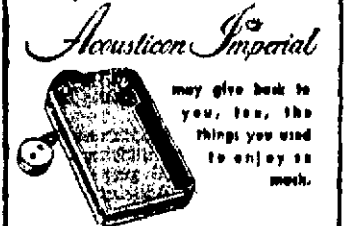

Three Persons Hurt
Potsdam, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Three persons were injured, none seriously, when a milk train crashed head-on into a standing New York Central passenger train today at Elbow station, four miles south of here. Authorities at Potsdam General Hospital reported that the only persons requiring hospitalization were Alfred Farnsworth, 48, of Norwood, a fireman on one of the trains; David Blake, 65, of Watertown, engineer on the milk train; and Herman Jaffe, 43, of Albany, a passenger. A total of 51 passengers were taken to the hospital and all but three were released after examination.

The woman who went to Church again after 9 years...

Because I helped HER HEARING!

Going to church was a great comfort to this woman. You can imagine how she felt when her hearing got so bad she just had to stop going. One day a friend of mine brought her in to see me. She just didn't believe any hearing aid could make a difference in her hearing—she was moody and kind of angry with the world. By the time I got finished with my demonstration of a new hearing instrument—UNLIKE any other in the world—she was a new person. You never saw such a change in anyone. Of course she hasn't missed a Sunday sermon—not even a single word—ever since.

Ohio-Pennsylvania Folk Are Rebuilding

Sharon, Pa., June 9 (AP)—Residents of this tornado-stricken city took up hammers and saws today for the gigantic task of repairing damage done by a twister that tore into Western Pennsylvania from Ohio, killing five and doing an estimated million dollars damage to nearby towns.

Sharon, a hardest hit of all with a 15-block area badly flattened, most of the 150 homeless families found shelter with friends or relatives but the Red Cross was providing housing for those who sought it and also was operating a meal service.

The tornado, followed by a heavy rainstorm, struck first at Ravenna, O., and hit DeForest, Warren, Youngstown and Niles, all in Ohio, before swinging into Pennsylvania where it damaged Sharon, Farrell, Grove City, Mercer and other communities.

morning Mr. Yerry asked for an adjournment of the matter for a week in order to obtain counsel. He said time had been too short to secure counsel. Local counsel who had been sought declined to appear on the grounds that to become engaged in a local labor dispute would injure their own business. Mr. Yerry said he sought time to secure counsel and said that he expected to be in touch with international representatives today and counsel would then be sent to defend the action.

Mr. Yerry said it would be shown that the Pilgrim Furniture Company, where a strike is now going on, and the South Prospect Realty Company are one and the same individuals and that the labor dispute therefore involved the construction job. Mr. Yerry said the short notice had not given him an opportunity to secure counsel and he sought additional time.

Mr. Haver, who with John E. Egan appeared for the Pilgrim interests, stated that Mr. Yerry had been given "as much time as I had" when he said the workers walked out on strike last week. Haver said he had been requested to submit an ultimatum on wage increases on June 3 or a strike vote would be taken on June 5. He sought until June 10 at noon to make such an answer but a strike vote was taken and the men walked out on June 6. The picketing at the Greenkill avenue project then prompted the show cause action. He said all of the men who were working on the project under the agreement made last fall were willing to go to work and were on the job ready to go to work but they declined to cross picket lines. For that reason he sought to have the picketing cease as there was no dispute between the workmen on the job and Pilgrim.

Mr. Haver said he was willing to adjourn the matter for a week if the pickets were withdrawn.

To Be Heard Friday

Justice Schirick said the matter would be heard on the merits on Friday at 10 a. m. and that a week's adjournment was "impossible." "If I adjourned the matter for a week you would get the relief you seek," Justice Schirick remarked to Haver.

At this point Mr. Yerry suggested a 48-hour adjournment and Mr. Haver said he would consent to such an adjournment provided the pickets were withdrawn from the Greenkill avenue job.

Yerry agreed to that provided no overtime work is done by the company erecting the building.

Barne R. King of Pilgrim was in court as was Francis Robinson, president of Local 1535. It was stipulated that the pickets would be withdrawn from the Greenkill avenue project by union officials and on behalf of Pilgrim, Mr. King agreed not to have overtime work done.

Justice Schirick warned both parties that any violation of the stipulation would be considered contempt of court.

The adjournment until Wednesday at 2 o'clock was announced.

Fisherman Catches $1,500 Diamond in Haul at Eddyville

A diamond ring estimated in value as high as $1500 by Foughkeepsie jewelers was a recent bonus "catch" for Harvey Davis of Van Wagner road in Arlington.

Davis, accompanied by several male relatives, caught a mess of crappies near Eddyville on the Rondout Creek and after splitting up the catch, the Arlington resident returned home and found the valuable upon cleaning the fish.

He told a reporter that the fish story was "true," but added "I wouldn't have believed it myself if it had happened to someone else."

Davis didn't have the ring in his possession at the time of the interview but fellow workers at the Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery supported his story saying that Davis had shown them the ring.

Davis said that the ring itself was platinum but that the sparkler in it "was as big as a head of a cigarette."

End of Rationing Of Sugar May Come During Month

Washington, June 9 (AP)—War-time rationing of sugar for household use may be ended this month "if."

1. Enough shipping is available between this country and Cuba.

2. There is no maritime strike.

3. Domestic consumption of sugar remains at its present level.

The three controlling factors were listed by highly placed officials on Capitol Hill shortly after Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told the House Banking Committee Saturday that household rationing of sugar would end as "soon as possible."

The cabinet officer said Cuban production has increased by 860,000 tons over the figure used when international allocations were made early this year.

In addition, the French have released 131,000 tons of the sugar allocated to them by Cuba," Anderson said, adding:

"We will know in a short time the total quantity of sugar which we will receive from Cuba, and other sources. We also will have a better indication of the quantity of sugar the consumer is taking under the present ration rates."

"As soon as these factors indicate that there is sufficient sugar to do so, we shall remove all restrictions on sugar for household use. Should we determine that supplies and the rate of distribution do not allow for removal of household rationing, the sugar would be made available through another stamp."

Moore Says Action Imperative to Give Money for Salaries

Comptroller Gives Views at Panel Discussion; Refuses Further Comment

Albany, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—State Comptroller Frank C. Moore's declaration that "something new" must be done to finance higher teacher salaries pointed today to a low-level disagreement over Governor Dewey's local taxing program.

Moore, noting opposition of counties to imposition of the new taxes authorized by the 1947 legislature to meet increased educational costs, declared:

"Speaking for myself personally, and not for the administration, it has been demonstrated that something new will have to be done to finance the cost of teachers' salary increases."

The comptroller, mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for governor in 1950, made his statement in a panel discussion at the 125th anniversary of Hobart College, Geneva, Saturday night.

He did not elaborate and declined further comment when contacted at his Kenmore home yesterday.

Under the Administration Bill, which followed enactment of a permanent teacher salary program and state-mandated minimums, counties were authorized to impose six special taxes, including a retail sales levy, for education. Cities of 100,000 given permission to impose any of the taxes not used by their counties, for general purposes.

The measure was passed after a threatened revolt of assembly Republicans had been quelled by Speaker Oswald D. Dick, who pleaded that Dewey's leadership was at stake.

Since then, 12 Republican-controlled county boards of supervisors have rejected the taxes and several asked Dewey to call a special legislative session to devise other methods of financing. He rejected their proposals.

Reportedly Not Consulted

Moore, author of the "Moore Plan" of state aid for localities, was reportedly not consulted on the final draft of the bill.

The administration measure was substituted for a tax program sponsored by the State Conference of Mayors and introduced by Senator Chauncey B. Hammond, Elmira Republican. The mayor's bill provided permissive taxation by all cities and villages, rather than counties. The amount of the taxes would have been left to local discretion. Funds raised would not have been earmarked specifically for education.

Moore is a power in the New York State Association of Towns, comprised largely of local officials. He was executive secretary for 10 years and now is honorary president.

The Comptroller was represented by an informed source as being in agreement with the principal of levying local taxes to relieve the strain of the increased burden, but disagreeing on the methods of taxation.

He is to address the state conference of mayors in Buffalo June 19 and it is believed he might elaborate upon his views then.

Elmira county, where Buffalo public school teachers went on strike last winter, has been the only upstate county to take advantage of the permissive taxing program. The county has approved a one per cent retail sales tax, effective July 1.

Meanwhile, the Empire State Federation of Teachers Unions (A.F.L.), at a week-end meeting in Schenectady, urged Dewey to call a special session by October 1 to enact a tax program "based on ability to pay."

Minister Subdues Wife's Attackers in Brooklyn Home

New York, June 9 (AP)—A Presbyterian minister, subduing his quarry with a golf club, turned over to police a young Negro he said had invaded his home and attempted to rape his wife.

The minister, 60-year-old Rev. Alvin E. Magary, said the Negro tried to fire his pistol at Magary and his wife, Marion, 40, before he jumped in panic from a second-story window of the Magary's Brooklyn home.

The intruder, who gave his name as George Smith, 20, of Brooklyn, broke his left knee in the jump. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital prison ward and charged with attempted rape, burglary, attempted felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan Anti-Weapon Law.

Police said Magary and his wife gave this account of the affray:

The minister left his bed early yesterday to go downstairs for a glass of warm milk. Hearing his wife screaming, Magary grabbed a shoe tree and dashed upstairs, with his dog, to find the prowler trying to force Mrs. Magary to the floor.

Despite the Negro's weapon, Magary said he threw the shoe tree at the intruder and then hit him in a hand-to-hand struggle. The Negro jumped.

Looking out the window, Magary saw Smith jumping across the lawn. The minister ran downstairs, grabbed a golf club on the way, and halted the Negro.

"I told him if he moved or tried to get away I would beat him upon the head," Magary said.

Police said the minister stood over his quarry until they arrived. Smith's German-made pistol failed to fire because it was loaded with American ammunition, police said.

They arrested a man who gave the name John Bryant, 22, from whom Smith said he got the gun, on a charge of violation of the Sullivan Law.

Magary, pastor of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, and his wife attended morning services as usual yesterday but the sermon was delivered by his assistant, the Rev. Donald Reitz. A volunteer substituted for Mrs. Magary at the organ.

Would Clear Bowery

New York, June 9 (AP)—The Bowery is getting freed of its bums. Through the Bowery Improvement Committee, the East Side Chamber of Commerce has suggested to Mayor William O'Dwyer that a city commission consider establishing a farm colony "somewhere upstate" to which the Bowery's chronic alcoholics could be sent for a cure.

"This action," said Wilfred B. Kirk, committee chairman, "would materially reduce the disgraceful condition of the Bowery, where the three-times-daily police pick-up of drunks seems like a continuous excursion." They are not representatives of New York city or state, but of a way of life," Kirk said.

Mac Cracken Declares Third War Started

Geneva, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—"The third world war already is started," says Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, former president of Vassar College.

Addressing the graduating class of Genesee State Teachers' College, Dr. MacCracken declared yesterday:

"So far this third world war has been a war of ideas and the issue is this: Is man a unit in an economic order or, more briefly, can moral man survive catastrophe?"

"These two ideas are irreconcilable," he said. "It may be possible, as our statesmen aver, that they can live side by side, each in its own land; but there is no sure evidence for such a hope. The insidious advance of dictatorship steps at no frontier."

Curtis Says Reds Get Overplay in Their World Power

Geneva, N. Y., June 9—Edward P. Curtis, former Chief of State of the U. S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe, said today that too much importance has been attached to Soviet-American relations because "Russia isn't that strong and not that good."

In an address prepared for commencement exercises at Hobart and William Smith Colleges, climaxing the school's 125th anniversary observance, Curtis declared:

"It is in many ways tragic that so much of our international thinking and planning has had to be focused on Russia, but there was probably no alternative.

"Vital as our relations with her are, I feel strongly that they have been given more importance than they deserve. Russia isn't that strong and not that good."

Degrees were conferred on 88 Hobart seniors and on 36 from William Smith.

Honorary Degrees Given

Honorary degrees were awarded to Curtis, now vice president of the Eastman Kodak Company; John G. Winant, former ambassador to Britain; Dr. Edmund E. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, unable to attend, received an honorary degree last night.

Geneva, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—"The third world war already is started," says Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, former president of Vassar College.

Addressing the graduating class of Genesee State Teachers' College, Dr. MacCracken declared yesterday:

"So far this third world war has been a war of ideas and the issue is this: Is man a unit in an economic order or, more briefly, can moral man survive catastrophe?"

"These two ideas are irreconcilable," he said. "It may be possible, as our statesmen aver, that they can live side by side, each in its own land; but there is no sure evidence for such a hope. The insidious advance of dictatorship steps at no frontier."

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Susie Exiled

Bear Mountain, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Susie, a raccoon, is an outcast from the trails museums where she was an attraction for two years.

She was freed yesterday in a swamp eight miles away after museum attendants discovered she had slipped into a snake pit and had killed nine blacksnakes.

Unhappy Puzzle

Lawrence, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Julius Brickner reported to police that $4,045 worth of jewelry and some bonds were missing from his Long Island home.

He said he wasn't sure whether burglars had broken into his wall safe "because they took it with them."

Family Barter

Polk, Neb., June 9 (AP)—Arrangement of vacation housing accommodations was a simple direct swap for Mr. and Mrs. Carl Steelquist of Polk, and Mr. and Mrs. Ous Anderson of Caldwell, Idaho.

The Steelquists are vacationing in Caldwell and living in the Anderson home. The Andersons are on vacation here and living in the Steelquist home.

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Steelquist are sisters.

MOTHER AT HOME

Remember the old-fashioned little steep-roofed chicken hutches set about in farm yards? The mother hen was kept inside behind slats that were spaced wide enough to permit the tiny chicks to run outside. Mother hen did a great deal of frantic clucking when the fluffy babies strayed too far. But seldom did they go beyond the sound of her call, and after a brief foray into the sunshine of the big world outside, they were usually ready to scurry back to the safety and warmth of her protecting wings. It was a simple practical device for keeping Mama hen home during child-rearing periods. It worked on the principle that where mother is, there is home, and a magnet to draw the young to it.

While it isn't the whole answer for raising chickens, it has its points. And maybe a little of the same theory could be applied with benefit to the human home and offspring. Those concerned with the growing problem of juvenile delinquency are wont to lay much of it to the absence from home of parents. How, they reason, can you expect children to stay at home and thereby out of trouble, if there's no adult, no mother, at home to welcome them, to make home worth coming to?

No sensible person would want Mother to stay home all of the time. She and the children both need little excursions away from the four walls and the backyard. But there's no getting away from it, if Mother's home, clucking the right cheery, re-assuring tune, the children are more likely to stay around, too. The farmer and his hens learned that long ago.

Uncle Sam may be destined to feed the world, but a lot of other fellows at least ought to help in passing the grub around.

MILLIONAIRE DEMOCRATS

Not all wealthy American families are Republican. This popular idea is disproved by the Belmonts, whose most distinguished recent member, Perry, has died at 96.

The American history of the Belmonts began with August, who came to this country soon after the Napoleonic wars as representatives of the banking house of Rothschild. He set up business for himself, became a noted Democratic leader and was chairman of the national committee from 1860 to 1872.

His son, August, had the distinction of having his expulsion from the 1912 Democratic convention demanded by William Jennings Bryan. Bryan offered a resolution opposing the nomination of a candidate indebted to J. P. Morgan, August Belmont or Thomas F. Ryan, and calling for expulsion of any delegates representing these interests. This meant Belmont and Ryan, both of whom were delegates. Later the resolution was modified by omitting the expulsion clause, but its adoption marked the end of August Belmont's party influence.

Perry Belmont served terms in Congress in the '80s, became chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee and Minister to Spain. His great work was in behalf of publicity for campaign funds; the present federal law on that subject owes much to his efforts.

Considering the lilies of the field, how unappreciating rowdies tear them up and throw them away.

NOT ENOUGH WORKERS

After five months of disinterested observation of life in England, not in London alone, but in the country at large, Hal O'Flaherty writes on the eve of his return home that the most important of the economic problems in Britain is that of too many non-producers.

Out of a population of 47,000,000, only 18,000,000 are productive workers. The 29,000,000 who are being fed, housed and clothed by the smaller number are not absolute drones. A large percentage are government clerks, and many of these are to be shifted to more important and harder jobs. Then to, England has always had a large

THE SOVIET MARCHES

When, even during the war, a very few of us suggested that Soviet Russia was an imperialist power that sought to unite all of Europe and Asia under a Russian hegemony, even more completely than Hitler and the Nazis ever dreamed possible, we were ridiculed. Most people did not believe that. Yet, it grows increasingly clear that the original Bolshevik program of a One World—a Soviet World—is moving with a momentum that can only lead to the alternatives of the acceptance of their program or the most devastating war in history. Not only do the Russians not give an inch but they take entire countries. The most recent is Hungary. The next to be Italy or Austria or both? And then, which way will they turn?

The answer grows increasingly tragic for Europe. Once Great Britain could withstand the menace from the Continent, by means of the British Empire, but socialism is rapidly sapping British strength as it has already sapped French strength. Let us not fool ourselves: not a nation in Europe can put up any sort of fight against Russia, not unless we did the fighting for them. It is an amazing picture: less than 300,000,000 people in the United States; Canada, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine, and Brazil today carry the rest of the human race on their shoulders. These are the principal remaining capitalist countries and they are sustaining world socialism. The Socialist countries not only cannot assist each other but they cannot provide for themselves. Hungary, at the very moment that it went over to Russia by a coup d'etat, was actually accepting assistance from the United States, Italy, in which the struggle for Communism is now the fiercest in Europe, seeks American financial aid. Yet, they all complain about the political role of the American dollar.

Do these nations really expect us to pay for our own destruction? Do they expect us to impoverish our own people to finance their experiments in socialism and their subservience to Communism? Do they anticipate that we enjoy being bled white while they permit Russia to ravage them?

The answer to all these questions is that from the day we entered World War II until today we have permitted ourselves to be blackmailed, first by our allies and now by every country that we have liberated from the Nazi yoke. In effect they say to us: "Give us what we demand of your wealth or productivity or we shall go over to the Russians and then you will have to go to war."

But do we have to go to war? What are we really afraid of? The Russians will never fight unless they are sure that there is not sufficient strength left in the United States to win a war. I see no evidence that they believe that.

What they do believe is that we are ready to pay blackmail. They have reason to believe that because we have paid so much. But if we stop paying, what will they do? In a word, is there not sufficient wisdom and diplomacy left in the United States to turn that table, to force the Europeans to recognize that the treasure hunt in the United States is over?

That sounds horrible. It is horrible. It is almost inhuman because people are hungry. Yet, we are dealing with brutes who envy our productivity and our wealth and who would use us until we are brought down to their level. No conquering country, for instance, has abused Hungary as the Russians have; yet a Hungarian minority is able to take over that country and hand it to Russia. And Togliatti can do exactly that in Italy when he is ready to seize power. And Thore and Duclos can probably do just that in France.

Well, let them. That is what the United States ought to tell these European countries. And the people of the United States ought to tell that to our own appeasers inside our own government, and in our Congress, and in the universities, and to Henry Wallace. We ought to say: Billions for suffering humanity; not one American dollar for blackmail.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

ANGINA PECTORIS

I watched a noted heart specialist make an examination of a patient with heart disease, caused by infected tonsils which had been followed by rheumatic fever. After making the usual tests with electrocardiograph and X-rays, he asked the patient if he sometimes walked to his home, had him make a test with his usual walking rate. He also inquired if he ever got out of breath or had a pain in his chest from walking a certain distance at this rate of speed. The specialist then advised him not to worry about his heart; that while his heart had a murmur and was slightly enlarged, it was a good "working" heart, because he had no pain from walking.

It is this pain in the chest, which may extend down to the arm, that is important because it may or may not be due to heart disease. It is called angina pectoris, is believed due to lack of oxygen in the blood being carried to the heart muscle, which has to pump the blood from the heart to all parts of the body. There is usually a thickening or clot in the vessel. Despite this obstruction, if enough pure blood (blood rich in oxygen) can go through the little vessel to nourish the heart muscle itself, there will be little or no pain.

As effort, exertion, kind, calls on the heart for more pure blood, angina pectoris occurs during this effort, and the pain passes away when the patient stops his work or exercise. As this pain in the chest may be caused by other conditions than heart disease, physicians now use various tests to find out the actual cause. The test consists of cutting down on the amount of oxygen in the air the patient breathes during exercise. Instead of the usual 20 per cent of oxygen in the air, the patient, while exercising, receives only 70 per cent for a period of 20 minutes (or less if real pain occurs). Immediately after finishing the test, the patient is allowed to breathe 100 per cent oxygen for at least five minutes. Electrocardiograms are taken at suitable intervals.

This test which brings on pain when oxygen of air is reduced shows when true coronary disease is present.

leisure class living on inherited income. Not all of these are wealthy, many having barely a competency, and many are able-bodied and capable of performing useful work. There are also many areas where unemployment still exists, and into which new industries are to be moved.

Getting production from these untapped sources is one of the many tasks before the British government, but upon its successful accomplishment hinges the prosperity, if not the very life, of the country.

James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, has been hired to "keep the screen free," and it is another example of the immense power now wielded by what, not many years ago, was a mere plaything.

One Way to Get Rid of a White Elephant

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, June 8.—As most of us citizens and our government seldom remember, the United States was established for the selfish purpose of promoting the general welfare of her people and securing the blessings of liberty to them and their posterity. To accomplish these purposes and to defend our nation, Congress was authorized to levy taxes. The original method of taxation was naive by the standards of this day, but the purpose of taxation never has been changed. It was then and it still is to pay the expenses of the operation of our government and of the defense of our country. We never had any intention to promote the general welfare of Greece, Turkey or Great Britain, or to defend them against Communism or any other enemy. Our people have never authorized Congress or any president from Washington down to Truman to spend our earned money for this purpose. No amendment to the constitution has been adopted which, by any stretch of the imagination or distortion of truth, could justify the collection of income taxes from American citizens for the governments of other nations. Such a proposal would flout the very intent stated in the preamble. The Greek and Turkish governments may be momentary, as soon to be forgotten as their debts with them, as any of the thousands of June-bug lunchwagons and petty retail stores whose casual and innumerable failures account for an enormous proportion of our bankruptcy roll, year by year. Since the start of this century we have seen eight monarchies fall throughout the Balkans, like the bosses of our own underworld. Not half of our own people can remember when Serbia, later to be called Serbia, then to be absorbed in Yugoslavia, was a Balkan kingdom, and Montenegro was another. The Balkan borders are elastic, stretching this way and that like battle lines, and the Greek peoples have no sense of nationality or loyalty. They have seen many occasions when they were on one side at the start of a war and shooting at their own comrades at the finish. In the last one, the Greeks hailed the poor, luckless English Tommy who was sent down to help defeat the Nazis, but many of the same Greeks were shooting up other Tommies when the Germans had been driven out. The American people don't know anything about their minute politics and the sneering changes, so like the frantic rushing of a man down a fire slide, and we never will. These peoples themselves know very little more than that they hate the dirty dogs in yonder valley because of something that happened some time.

The British nation has been permanent as we seek permanent among nations, but that mere fact gives Britain no more right to impose taxes on George Spivak, American, than Greece has on an American citizen defaults his income tax today and the Treasury gets a judgment and sells him out on the courthouse steps, after the manner of a not-so-often day, we then have the spectacle of Uncle Sam forcibly taking a citizen's property which he has earned by work and saved by denial and handing it over to some unidentified Englishman. The Englishman may be one of those sullen miners who decided they would rather see their country die than give an honest day's work to save her. Or he may be a very fine fellow, a hero of the war, a worker and a lot of that. But, whatever his identity and character, the American citizen has no obligation under our constitution and our laws to work to pay taxes to support him.

Most of our people have absolutely no recollection of the original debates on the income tax law and the income tax amendment. Some were wonderfully prophetic, although the men who warned us then were scoffed at like those later stalwarts who stood reduced to warn us against the Communist treachery and to commend the Dies Committee for its revelations. These men predicted that, given this great power to accept extravagance and to make the people pay for it by income taxes, future congresses and presidents would throw our earnings to the breeze like Saturday night sports in a roaring camp. They warned us that ten thousand spies and catchpols would be turned loose among us to ask questions about our private affairs which, up to that time, no American citizen had ever had to answer to anybody except when he was sent to prison for a felony. They predicted that we would become a card-index people listed in data showing how much we gave to support our aged parents, how much to the church and how much, if any, to maintain a mistress, and this has come true. And they told us, but we would not listen, that for every dollar of tax that we paid under this amendment, we would have to work a length of time at our jobs.

Today a dollar's worth of work is about 45 minutes for most of us, so a man who pays $200 a year in income tax works 150 hours to pay his share. That is almost four 40-hour weeks every year. Now, without any consultation of his wishes, a certain proportion of it is taken for foreign governments. Let us assume that out of his particular income tax our government gives foreign governments $12.50. That means almost ten hours, or 1 1/4 days a year, which is quite a large power to free, involuntary labor when you multiply it by six million.

In some ways the Americans are very shrewd. In other ways they are very stupid. Nobody ever heard of the people of any other nation being put to involuntary labor for an average of 10 hours a year, unpaid, for the benefit of the people of the United States.

Predictions Are That President Truman Will Veto Tax Reduction and Labor Bills

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 9.—Most of the President's supporters now are predicting that he will veto both the Tax Reduction and the Labor Regulation Bill.

"The effect would be to end all chance of tax reduction this year but there are enough votes in both Houses to override the veto on the Labor Bill."

Psychologically, if Mr. Truman carries out this program, he will produce a disheartening impression in the business world and will remove that necessary factor of confidence which might have been helpful in keeping the current recession to mild limits.

With the feeling that the President has turned to the "left," business men will have their plans upset and they will not be able to count on anything but political turmoil from now until the November 1948 elections are over.

Mr. Truman will have disregarded the logic of politics and the indicators which sent his popularity curve up after the November elections. For a veto of the Tax Bill will mean that the President has no regard for the wishes of the 48,000,000 taxpayers and intends to keep on spending and spending and taxing and taxing.

The most dangerous element in the situation is what may happen to the bi-partisan program of foreign policy. It will be difficult for Senator Vandenberg to keep the Republican Party in line if Mr. Truman asks for more billions for "pump-priming" outside the United States and ignores the tax burdens inside the United States when there is a surplus.

The new tax rates would not mean lower revenues. Every bit of experience shows that under lower tax rates and good business conditions the revenues increase. The estimated diminution of $4,000,000,000 in revenues based on the proposed rates cannot be relied upon to emerge as a loss. It could stimulate investment and business volume and purchases so that the tax receipts might go higher and the so-called loss be erased in large part. In the 1920's when tax rates were reduced tax receipts increased markedly.

There is no sign that Mr. Truman has made up his own mind in advance. He has waited for all the written reports from his associates and it is at the last minute, after reading all the suggestions obtainable from his official family, that a decision will be reached.

The decision may be based on a line of reasoning that is not clear as yet but will be as the political campaign for 1948 unfolds. Mr. Truman is impressed with the argument that, if a slump develops in 1947, he will need all the artificial devices he can muster to get a recovery boom swinging in the summer of 1948 so as to be of help to him in the autumn elections.

If tax reduction is frustrated now and the total amount of surplus is applied to debt reduction, Mr. Truman will claim that he cut down the public debt and aided in maintaining a sound fiscal position. But he will not be able to claim credit for the cutting of the budget which he and his official family are doing everything in their power to thwart.

By 1948, however, the President's supporters think he can propose a tax-reduction bill that may pass in February or March next to take effect as of Jan. 1, 1948. The taxpayers presumably will feel the effects of the tax reduction and thank Mr. Truman. The Republican majority will help pass such a tax bill but Mr. Truman may be surprised to find that he can get it only by approving a bill that contains a provision to give the taxpayers as a refund a portion of what they were denied in 1947 by the Truman veto.

Likewise, Mr. Truman may find some of the administrative provisions of the tax laws amended far more than the Treasury desires. Certainly a veto of the tax bill—which will be sustained in Congress because the Democrats as a party are taking a stand against tax reduction—would mean the beginning of a rather bitter partisan fight.

Two voices of the acts of the Republican Congress certainly will not be called "cooperation" with the majority in Congress or with the sentiment of the electorate as expressed last November. But that's what the Democrats on Capitol Hill close to the White House say, however, is coming in a few days.

Political logic points to a signature of the tax bill and a veto of the labor bill but Mr. Truman has been two laps behind logic of all kinds ever since V-J Day. A President who has urged wage increases without corresponding increases in production and without a raise in prices to absorb the cost is certainly not a devoted follower of either political or economic logic.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

When President Truman recently asked that we open our doors to 400,000 of Europe's displaced persons he set the stage for a sizeable argument, most Americans having a definite opinion, pro or con, on the subject of further immigration.

The most generous people in history, Americans have been at all times sympathetic with the plight of men, women and children who had to run for their lives during the war; most of whom are anti-Communists from the curtailed of countries and because of their politics would face slow death in slave labor camps should they go back home.

There are currently less than 800,000 in D.P. camps, mostly Christians but about 150,000 of them are Jews. The largest groups are Latvians, Lithuanians, Estonians, Poles and Yugoslavs, among them a preponderance of Catholics.

These people are subsisting on a diet far below standard, and having nowhere to go they are just waiting. With nothing to inspire any immediate hope for a permanent landing place, their principal emotion is fear. They fear that left-wing U.N.R.R.A. officials will succeed in delivering them to Russian secret police—as some have been so delivered in past months.

The only people among them who might safely go back to Eastern Europe are those sympathetic with Marxism but who are anti-Zionism. The largest group have not been identified with Zionist activities. The Bolsheviks in 1918 outlawed Zionism as a rival political ideology, and many of the Jews who have read about in Soviet slave camps were sent there because of their Zionist leanings or agitation.

Organized Ring
On the other political extreme in the D.P. camps were, and doubtless still are, some who willingly played ball with the Hitlerites or who favor a totalitarian ideology.

America has no room for any of these individuals or groups. We are already groggy with alien ideology. We are sick from an indigestible bait, so that we find ourselves in the peculiar position of having to prescribe large doses of Americanism even to native Americans. To take in at this time more aliens who do not understand or who scorn our constitutional principles and who cannot be assimilated would make no more sense than for a poison patient to take more poison.

But the question is, how to screen out the undesirable and admit the many sturdy, self-reliant, industrious individuals who could be assimilated?

This would not be a serious problem if our own State Department currently wielding much influence in the selection of immigrants, and our Immigration Service, these departments have been badly infiltrated with radicals so that for several years they have been able, on numerous occasions actually to screen immigration in favor of Marxism. There is, too, a highly informed, politically influential group, with shrewd full-time lawyers, snaking in the friends and relatives in large numbers, without regard to traditional American ideology.

"Soviet Hotshots" Coming In
As a matter of common sense, before Congress gets around to the Truman proposal, we should do something about the swollen stream of aliens already coming in—legally and illegally. Congressman A. L. Miller of Nebraska charged in March that a million refugees were pouring into the United States each year.

I have not seen another estimate of this high-bureaucratic General Clark himself admitted in 1946 that aliens were crossing our borders at an estimated 2,000 a day—which adds up to about 730,000 a year. His spokesmen said these were "only Mexicans whom we pick up and set back across the border," but it doesn't make sense to suppose that other aliens, known to be in Mexico in large numbers, are not likewise coming across nor that all of them or the great majority of them are sent back.

There is much evidence to the contrary and Representative McDowell of Pennsylvania charged last week that "there is evidence of a definite traffic of hotshot Soviet agents by plane and boat" into this country.

So we would like to hear what Congress and Mr. Truman are going to do about our present immigration problem before we take up a future program.

Satkowitz-Alpert Wedding Takes Place In New York City

Miss Florence Alpert, formerly of Kerhonkson, daughter of Mrs. H. Horowitz, 2284 Grand avenue, Bronx, was married Sunday at 1 p. m. to Jack Satkowitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Satkowitz of Brooklyn, in Beethoven Hall, New York city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Lifshin. Soft lights and spring flowers were used for decorations. A soloist sang Because and Oh, Promise Me.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother. Her father was the late Sol Alpert of Kerhonkson. She wore a white tulle gown made with sweetheart neckline, bustle back and three yard train. Tournament—E-W Vol.
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 1

Opening—♥ 7By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Southern players continue to come to the front as champions. In the recent Southeastern Regional Tournament at Hollywood, Fla., a Tennessee team won the team-of-four championship over a very fine field. The winners were Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Scott of Memphis and Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Burleigh of Germantown. Several years ago Mr. Scott was on a Memphis team that won the national women's team-of-four championship.

In today's hand Mrs. Burleigh made a very clever deception play that trapped the declarer and gave her top score on the board. Declarer won the opening lead with the jack of hearts. He led the jack of spades, and when West played down, the three of spades was played from dummy. Instead of winning this trick with the queen, Mrs. Burleigh (East) won it with the ace of spades. She crashed the ace of hearts, then led the queen of hearts, clearing the heart suit.

Declarer won the queen of hearts with the king and led the nine of spades. When West played the five, South confidently called for the six, believing that West was marked with the queen of spades. But Mrs. Burleigh won with the queen and ran the balance of her hearts.

Suppose that Mrs. Burleigh had made the natural play and won the first trick with the queen of spades, then cleared the heart suit. Declarer would have been afraid to continue the spade suit. He would have tried first to run the club suit, and when that did not work, he would have resorted to the diamond finesse. This would have won and the contract would have been made.

Of course this deceptive play should not be made every time you hold the ace-queen, but if you remember the play, it will prove a valuable asset to your game.

Fairchild Foresees

shaping the course of that development. I.C.C. proved so successful in the campaign to elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was developed into a permanent committee and a few months ago merged with the Progressive Citizens of America. It is a most amazing and encouraging manifestation of what the American people will do, if there is leadership, inspiration and a definite pathway pointed out to them.

Even Picked Date
"You want to have a part in the outcome of tension and problems in which we all find ourselves enmeshed," continued Professor Fairchild. He briefly told of a recent informal discussion of seven well known economists where there was practically no departure from unanimity in the idea that we are headed for a depression. On this occasion, Stuart Chase, informal chairman of the group went so far as to predict Labor Day, 1947, as the beginning of such a depression.

"This question of 'Are we headed for a depression is a pertinent, live and serious matter,' continued the speaker. 'You must be ready to accept the evidence of the facts * * * many of us are afraid to follow the logic of our own intellect. The discussion of a depression generally revolves around the question of prices and price levels because that is the way most of us have been encouraged to think. The pocket-book nerve is the most sensitive point of the American people. Money is a very fluctuating, unreliable, transitory sort of thing. We are more or less inclined to change everything into terms of money. The danger of this is that we can buy * * * what makes the wealth of a country is land, houses and such. All this talk about prices, true as it is, is very likely to mislead people as to the real causes of depressions and the real difficulties that arise from depression. It is my conviction that we would have loans and bust in this country, organized on what we call the capitalistic system, even though prices remained stable. The basic cause of depression does not lie in price fluctuations * * * it lies in something far deeper, more closely connected with the very change in the structure of our economic system."

Not in Text Books
One of the reasons given by Mr. Fairchild for the depression was the fact that business generally is privately owned instead of publicly, and secondly, that the owner of the business owned the production of industry, and as a consequence the owner of the business has complete control of the finished product. He also discussed the derivation of profits, extent of sales to a given community. He referred to the economic textbooks being used in our universities and colleges, and stated that while there are five basic elements in the capitalist system, only four of these are to be found in any given textbook. The fifth, ownership, is not in any index, and yet Mr. Fairchild feels this is the most important one of all. The other four elements referred to are land, labor, capital and organization.

"We have to have men like Henry Wallace, to give the small businessman a break," asserted Mr. Fairchild as he continued to describe in some detail, the profit system.

"We are now in the first steps of the pessimistic cycle," continued Professor Fairchild. "How soon it is going to come and how bad it is going to be, I do not know. It may be stopped in two ways: 'First, if people voluntarily refuse to have incomes larger than they wanted to spend for consumer goods, and second for the government to step in and say you can't have these excess incomes; you are not to be allowed to have so much more for yourself. President Roosevelt made the first really definite and concrete solution to that problem when he asked for his conviction to be enacted into law that no one could have more than $25,000 after taxes. If that had been carried out, we would not be in the danger of the depression we are now headed for."

Says Wallace Idea Right
"Henry Wallace has made the proposal that we give away 10 billions of dollars to help feed and clothe people all over the world. The idea is right and if we were willing to adopt a policy whereby the government would tax the people who could afford it, and the money used to buy the production of consumer goods and donated freely by the people in the world, we would have purchasing power to keep us going and provide the market. Take the money that would otherwise go to an over-expanded productive plant, give the goods away. I think it would work on that basis. Not one cent of the money should be used for war, but for food, tractors, farm implements, clothing and such for these people.

With the hope that this great common middle mass of Americans can be stimulated, made dynamic. Perhaps little by little we can save this country, and by saving this country, we can save the world. No matter what your feeling about other countries may be, we have a job of leadership here in the United States which is our responsibility, our opportunity, and the chance is before us to make it also a reality."

Will Think It Incredible
At the close of Mrs. Fairchild's lecture, a question and answer period was held. When many in the audience asked for clarification of various points cited during the lecture, the depletion of this country's resources was discussed, as well as the amazing abundance the country should have. During this period in answer to a question, Professor Fairchild stated that President Roosevelt's economic views were fundamentally classical economics and cited the case of the plowing under of cotton and killing of pigs in the hope of creating scarcity and boosting prices. "Future generations will think it incredible that leaders of this country thought the way to create prosperity was to destroy value, and even Henry Wallace wrote a book justifying this action," said Mr. Fairchild.

The professor in answer to a question of ownership and government, differentiated between society, state, government and people. On the question of socialism, he pointed out that this country is full of socialism in schools, roads, post offices, public utilities and so on; said the country is tremendously socialized. The government does not own these things but the people own them.

"A useful thing to keep in mind," he said in reply to a question on Soviet Russia, "is that they have an economic pattern and a political pattern and we are inclined to get them mixed, and it is natural that we should. This was the first revolution in history in which a people completely reorganized its political and economic system and governed them together. They had to do this. If we wanted to change our economic system for greater socialism, we could do it by popular vote. It would not be necessary to change our political setup."

State Ranks High
Albany, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—New York ranks among the top states in the proportion of farms with modern home equipment. The observation was made yesterday by the state agriculture department which, in a federal-state statistical report, listed 90 per cent of the farm homes with radios and 83 per cent with electrical equipment of some sort. Other percentages include kitchen sinks, 82; power driven washing machines, 74; rooming water, 59; telephones, 58; and mechanical refrigerators, 52. The census, taken in 1943, listed 149,490 farms, of which 140,977 were of orated by families living on them.

Belgians Hold Two Carrying Bombs Hidden in Valise

Man and Woman Secreted Types of Letter Bombs Picked Up in London

London, June 9 (AP)—Belgian police had under arrest today a man and woman whose false compartment suitcase was reported to contain letter bombs such as were mailed to 20 leading Britons last week.

Scotland Yard placed an operative at the disposal of Belgian authorities to determine whether the couple might have been involved in the mailing of explosives from Italy.

Scotland Yard said also that persons thinking themselves funny had crammed numerous bogus letter bombs, fashioned like the real ones, into British letter boxes, complicating the investigation.

A yard agent, who was in Belgium on another investigation, was instructed to assist Belgian authorities in any way possible in the investigation of the couple, caught at the French frontier while on route to Brussels.

Belgian dispatches quoted the woman as asserting that her male companion had nothing to do with the letters. She was reported to have said she belonged to a secret organization and received the trick valises from someone in Paris unknown to her.

This disclosure came as Scotland Yard officials expressed interest in a report from Genoa, Italy, that a man there professing to belong to the so-called Stern gang, Jewish underground group, had said he mailed the genuine bombs.

These loaded letters, none of which did any harm, were postmarked from Italy. Prime Minister Attlee, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and their respective predecessors, Winston Churchill and Anthony Eden, were among the reported targets. The Genoa report was contained in a dispatch from Carlo Massaro, Associated Press correspondent, who quoted his informant as saying he had mailed all 20 bombs, one of them to King George VI.

Scotland Yard officials said they planned a routine check of this report. The spokesman said the description of the bombs given in the interview tallied on most points with that available here, but he denied that any bombs had been addressed to the royal family.

Double Tragedy Is Unexplained; Wife Follows Husband

New York, June 9 (AP)—In an unexplained double tragedy, Horace S. Marshall, 36-year-old attorney and corporation executive, plunged to his death from his 17th floor penthouse last night and was followed a few minutes later by his pretty wife.
Mrs. Amelie Edgerton Marshall, 36, also an attorney, examined her husband's body and then returned to their penthouse in Greenwich Village and jumped. Her body struck within five feet of that of her husband, narrowly missing a policeman who was investigating.

Marshall was secretary of the Singer Sewing Machine Company and a director of other corporations. Relatives said he was a direct descendant of Chief Justice John Marshall of the United States. They could give no explanation for the couple's acts.

Police listed both deaths as suicides.
Mrs. Marshall, though she appeared dazed, answered questions of police during the brief time she was in the garden court behind the apartment into which Marshall had leaped. She said he got out of bed, walked to a balcony, climbed a four-foot parapet and jumped.
She then ran to the hall, repeating "He's gone overboard," and went down to the court and leaned over his body.

Suddenly she said, "I have to telephone Horace's brother John about this." The auburn-haired widow then went back up to the apartment, locked the door, and moments later she jumped.
Both Marshall and his wife wore lounging clothing and apparently had spent the day in the apartment. Neighbors had heard no sounds or argument, police said, and John Marshall, a brother, said

• Here you see a squeak in the process of being exterminated . . .
You know, it's a funny thing the way a squeak will "telegraph" around—you think you've found it and then you find you haven't. But I found this baby—right on that little strip of rubber where the hood comes down. And I fixed it for good.
Of course, catching squeaks and squelching them is just one of the things that goes along with a thorough lubrication job. And, by the way, now is the time to have this done to your car—before your summer driving. To save your time—make a date for a lubrication job now.
